About This Tour

The traditional village of Wae Rebo in the district of Manggarai on the island of Flores. Waerebo is a small, very out-of-the-way village that's situated around 1,100 meters above sea level and approximately 2 to 3 hours travel by foot from Denge village.

According to the local legend, their ancestors were from Minangkabau. Led by Empo Maro, they sailed from Sumatra to Labuan Bajo.

Empo Maro fled his village because he was slandered and wanted to be killed.

About This Tour

Then he wandered to several cities. First, he stopped in Gowa and then moved to several other cities. During his travels, Maro found a wife, and then he invited his wife to move with him.

One night, Maro dreamed of meeting a wise person who spoke to Maro to settle and thrive in Wae Rebo.

Maro followed what the wise person said, and he and his wife searched for Wae Rebo. After arriving in Wae Rebo, Maro and his wife lived and settled there.
